Organizations Collaborate to Assist Area Poor

BETHLEHEM, PA-November 13, 2017. Bethlehem nonprofit Humanitarian Social Innovations (HSI) is pleased to announce a collaborative partnership with Bethlehem Women of Excellence to maximize their impact on area women and families who are less fortunate and in need of empowerment.

This collaboration comes just in time for the Christmas season when Bethlehem Women of Excellence founder, Dr. Enid P. Jackson and her team of volunteers conduct the organization's largest outreach to impoverished area families. Since 2008, Women of Excellence has given out thousands of Christmas gifts and has served thousands of meals to the poor in our local area at their annual Christmas party. Countless local businesses and donors support this effort which takes place annually at the Broughal Middle School. Local police and fire departments assist in serving the public at this event.

While most well-known for the annual Christmas outreach, BWOE also provides Thanksgiving baskets for those less fortunate, a free Music in the Park program in summer and other community outreach programs.

By becoming a program of HSI, Bethlehem Women of Excellence is now able to accept donations that are fully tax-exempt. In addition BWOE can benefit from HSI's strategic partnerships and networks as both organizations strive to serve humanity. HSI is pleased to support the work of Bethlehem Women of Excellence.

Humanitarian Social Innovations is a 501(c)(3) non profit organization with a humanitarian mission to create social impact through fiscal sponsorship, incubation and mentorship of early stage nonprofits and grassroots movements. HSI's mission is inspiring and connecting social entrepreneurs with the resources necessary to empower them and to maximize their humanitarian impact.
